DENT'S CHRONOMETERS,
WATCHES and CLOCKS, have long held pre-eminent rank, as may be seen from Reports of various scientific persons :—

THE ASTRONOMER ROYAL, (Sir G. B. AIRY,) in his Report to the Admiralty (13th of August, 1870) on forty Chronometers entered for annual competition, says of M. F. DENT's Chronometer:—

"THIS IS THE FINEST CHRONOMETER WE HAVE EVER HAD ON TRIAL."

N.B.—The LATE ASTRONOMER ROYAL (J. POND, Esq.), reporting in 1829 on the celebrated public trial, by order of the Lords of the Admiralty, which lasted thirteen years, during which nearly 500 Chronometers were tested, says :—

"Your Chronometer, No. 114, is entitled to the First Premium. Actual variation in the year 54 hundredths of a second. This is superior to any other yet tried.

THE RUSSIAN IMPERIAL ASTRONOMER,
M. STRUVE, of St. Petersburg, reporting upon 81 Chronometers tested by the Russian Chronometrical Expedition in 1843, says :—

"The DENT CHRONOMETERS have held FIRST RANK in a brilliant manner. They contributed, beyond dispute, the MOST EFFECTUALLY to the exactitude of the results.
"M. STRUVE."

* * By Command of the Emperor, the Russian Gold Medal of the Highest Order of Merit was presented to Mr. DENT.

The Report on Chronometers, Watches, &c., by the Judges at the Philadelphia Exhibition, 1876, can be had on application.

INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION, PHILADEL-PHIA (1876). The Judges in their Report on the Exhibits of M. F. DENT said of his Chronometers and Watches :—

"The Workmanship was of the First Order," and of his Clocks, "They were representative of the highest achievements of his art."

MEDAL AND DIPLOMA OF THE HIGHEST ORDER WERE AWARDED.

Mr. H. M. Stanley's Testimony.

To the excellence of Chronometers supplied to him by M. F. DENT, and used in finding his longitude in his last Expedition, says in a letter, 5th July, 1890 :—

"The Chronometers supplied by you, and which were taken across Africa in my late Expedition, proved of very great service to me, and were in every way thoroughly satisfactory and reliable."

MR. C. B. HARNESS'
 SYSTEM OF ELECTRO-MASSAGE
 A METHOD OF CURE
 COMBINING
 ELECTROPATHIC TREATMENT WITH
 MASSAGE MANIPULATIONS.

THE MEDICAL BATTERY COMPANY, Limited, have Special Departments for the Treatment of Paralysis, Hysteria, Rheumatic Affections, Gout, Sleeplessness, loss of Appetite, Neurasthenia, Spinal Complaints, Chronic Dyspepsia, Constipation, Corpulence and other diseases, by Electrification combined with Massage, under the charge of their officers, who have had a long and varied experience in Hydro-Therapeutics, Electricity and Massage, and the staff of Masseurs and Electricians who act under his direction all hold certificates of proficiency. At the head of the Ladies' Department is a skilful and experienced Masseuse (who has had the highest scientific training, and is the holder of several special certificates), and ladies may rely upon each individual case receiving scrupulous care and attention. In making this announcement the directors feel they have met a wide-spread want; they have specially fitted up suites of rooms exclusively for this treatment, the arrangements of which are replete with every appointment conducive to the comfort of patients. This treatment is becoming more popular every day. It is recommended by the leading members of the Faculty, including Dr. Herbert Tibbits, Dr. Arthur Harries, Dr. Gordon Stables, M.D., Dr. Cecil Greenwood, M.R.C.S., Surgeon-General Tuson, M.D., Dr. Russell Harris, M.D. It is also patronised by Mr. Arthur Paul, M.A., Mr. Edward Lloyd, Miss Jessie Mr. William Gunn, Rev. Wm. John Edge, Rev. E. F. Shaw, and thousands of Bond, other influential and distinguished personages, including Ambassadors, Dukes, Earls, Countesses, Marquesses, Lords, Cabinet Ministers, Members of Parliament, Baronets, Knights, Judges, Bishops, Physicians, Clergymen, Barristers, Solicitors, Military and Naval Officers, Men of Letters, and all classes of society; but as it would be a breach of confidence to publish their names in the Press, we refrain from doing so, except when special permission is given. Consultations may be had free of charge, and those who cannot call should write for descriptive pamphlet to the proprietors;—

THE SPEAKER.

THE LEADING LIBERAL WEEKLY.

Price 6d.

THE SPEAKER devotes special attention to Literary News and Criticism, great care being taken to keep this department of the journal free from any suspicion of favouritism on the one hand, and of sectarianism or narrow-mindedness on the other.

The Staff of Writers includes many men of established eminence in the World of Letters, as well as specialists, who treat with unquestioned authority the Scientific, Artistic, and Economic Problems of the day.

THE SPEAKER is read in all quarters of the world, and is everywhere recognised as an authority on Political, Social, and Literary Questions.

Owing to the class amongst which it circulates, THE SPEAKER, as an Advertising Medium, has a special value. Rates may be obtained on application at the Offices, 115, FLEET STREET, LONDON, E.C.

THE SPEAKER is on sale every Saturday morning at the Railway Bookstalls and principal Newsagents' of the United Kingdom.

Copies are delivered to Subscribers by post early on Saturday in all parts of the kingdom.

It is earnestly requested that where any difficulty is experienced in procuring copies, the fact may be communicated to the Publishers.

PATRONS:

HIS GRACE THE ARCHBISHOP of CANTERBURY.	THE MOST HON. THE MARQUIS OF SALISBURY, K.G.
HIS GRACE THE DUKE OF NORFOLK, K.G.	THE RIGHT HON. THE EARL OF DERBY, K.G.

A SPECIAL refuge for poor persons afflicted with this fearful disease, who are admitted free without letters of recommendation.

Diet required to be most generous and treatment of the most expensive kind.

The Hospital has been in operation 42 years, and has given relief since its foundation to upwards of 35,000 persons suffering under this terrible scourge of humanity.

The building, which has been greatly extended, is capable of receiving about 120 Indoor Patients.

No restriction is placed on the admission of Out-Patients, the number of which amounts to upwards of 1,500 constantly under treatment.

Out-Patients are seen on their own application, daily, at 2 o'clock, except Sundays.

New Annual Subscriptions and Donations are urgently solicited.

- OBJECTS:
- (1). To clear the streets of London of stray dogs, and thus remove a serious nuisance, and protect the dense population of the metropolis from terrible danger.
 - (2). To restore to owners of lost dogs their valued pets and companions and when good dogs are unclaimed find suitable homes for them, at nominal charges.
 - (3). To destroy in a painless manner dangerous and worthless dogs.
 - (4). To cremate the carcasses of dogs which have been destroyed, and thus avert what might be a sanitary grievance if so many dogs were otherwise disposed of.

The Home has no subsidy from Government or any Public Local Authority, but relies entirely upon sympathizing voluntary subscribers for funds. Nearly 1,000 dogs and cats are daily fed and sheltered, and the committee are urgently in need of support.

ARE

ANNA RUPPERT'S
Magnificent Reception and Consulting Rooms
IN THOSE CITIES.

WHERE every day crowds of benefited patients, and crowds of new clients wanting to be benefited, assemble to interview Mrs. RUPPERT or her Resident Manageress. Mrs. RUPPERT'S RENOWNED SKIN TONIC will absolutely cure chronic acne and redness of skin. It cleanses the pores, tones relaxed muscles, and is NOT a cosmetic. Perfectly harmless, even to the most delicate. Brings the skin to its original condition, and is a NATURAL REMEDY. Price, per bottle, 10/6: three bottles together (usually required) 25/-. Post paid (privately packed) to any town in the United Kingdom. Also send two stamps for new, completely illustrated "BOOK OF BEAUTY," worth a guinea, with invaluable hints concerning the acquirement and preservation of beauty.

The London newspapers say:—"Mrs. Ruppert's complexion is certainly a guarantee of her knowledge." "Her gentle manner and grace wins the heart of every Englishwoman who visits her." "Her idea of complexion treatment is certainly natural and harmless, as well as beneficial." "Mrs. Ruppert's pretty office reminds one of a golden cage to love for ever." "Her remedies are certainly remarkable, as they are not cosmetics, and do not show, nor require continual use; once clear, the skin remains fresh and lovely." But enough!

ANNA RUPPERT'S DYSPEPSIA CURE is unrivalled for the permanent cure of this distressing complaint, and Mrs. Ruppert has much pleasure in testifying to its complete success in her own case, as for many years she, herself, was one of the most terrible sufferers from this universal ailment.

ANNA RUPPERT'S ESTABLISHMENT. In this new and elegantly appointed establishment we find—FIRST FLOOR—Reception Salons, Sale Room, and special room for the new and already popular LONG-WAISTED CORSET; easy, graceful, light, comfortable, and reasonable in price, from 12/6 to 5 guineas; all one style, different materials. Many of these have been sold, and highest testimonials for same received from ladies in all classes of society and dramatic life.

SECOND FLOOR—ANNA RUPPERT'S private consultation rooms (strictly private). Manicure and Pedicure Department, also private, and wholesale departments. THIRD AND FOURTH FLOORS—Cashier, correspondence, mailing, general business, manager's department; also laboratory, where thousands of bottles of SKIN TONIC are made and prepared for sale. All business and manufacturing under the immediate supervision of ANNA RUPPERT in person, who carefully prepares all remedies with due regard to the delicacy of all complexions.

ANNA RUPPERT'S NEW BOOK ABOUT BEAUTY, WORTH ONE GUINEA, sent FREE on receipt of 2d. postage, very valuable, a full report (taken by shorthand writer), of ANNA RUPPERT'S LAST LECTURE sent, price 6d. Ladies who wish to consult Mrs. RUPPERT can do so by post or in person. No charge. All names sacred, all queries answered free of charge, and very willingly. Call and see the new and elegant establishment. Artistic manicuring, price 4/6. Chiropody reasonable, best artists. All welcome.

Address all letters to the celebrated American Complexion Specialist.

SPECIAL ATTENTION GIVEN TO TRANSACTIONS CONNECTED WITH LIFE INTERESTS AND REVERSIONS.

SCOTTISH EQUITABLE

(MUTUAL)

LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY.

Established 1831. Incorporated by Royal Charters and Special Act of Parliament.

Head Office—26 ST. ANDREW SQUARE, EDINBURGH.

London Office—69 KING WILLIAM STREET, E.C.

President—HIS GRACE THE DUKE OF BUCCLEUCH AND QUEENSBERRY, K.T.

THE SCOTTISH EQUITABLE is a Purely Mutual Office. There are no Shareholders to absorb any portion of the Profits, which are therefore wholly divided among the holders of Participating Policies. Its leading features are—Unquestionable Security, Liberal Conditions of Insurance, and Early Participation in Profits. The Guaranteed Minimum Surrender Value is endorsed on each Policy issued.

The Premiums are calculated by Half-years of Age, so that those who insure within six months after a birthday will be charged a Lower Rate of Premium than formerly.

Position of the Society at 1st March 1892.

Existing Assurances, including Bonus Additions	£10,716,305
Income	£427,943
Accumulated Funds	£3,431,669

COMPLETE AND LIBERAL NON-FORFEITURE REGULATIONS.—The Society has adopted the principle of Non-Forfeiture to its fullest extent, and there is no possibility of a valuable policy being forfeited through an accidental omission to pay the premium.

NEW PLAN OF IMMEDIATE BONUS POLICIES.—Special attention is directed to this New Scheme, the rates under which are lower than the usual non-profit rates. The yearly premium payable at age 30 for an ordinary with profit policy for £1,000 will assure £1,300 under this new plan, thus securing an Immediate Bonus of £300.

CLAIMS are payable immediately after proof of death and title.

LOANS are granted in connection with Life Insurance, on Life Interests, Reversions, and other approved security. The Directors are also prepared to entertain proposals for the sale of Reversions to the Society.

Secretary—J. J. McLAUCHLAN.

Manager—T. B. SPRAGUE, M.A.

The Committee APPEAL very earnestly for FUNDS to enable them to help those ladies of Ireland who depend for their support on the proceeds of Irish property, but who, owing to the rent difficulty and causes beyond their own control, have been reduced to absolute poverty.

Relief is given independently of any question of politics or religion.

Employment is found, when possible, for those able to work.

Pecuniary help is given to the aged and infirm.

Education of children is, in cases, paid for.

The work of these ladies is on sale at the depot, 17, North Audley Street. Orders are gratefully received for trousseaux, layettes, and work of every description—plain and fancy.

The Committee will be grateful for gifts of clothing, boots, and blankets.

THE FASHIONABLE MODE OF WRITING IS BY MEANS OF

Mr. YÖST
perfected

THE REMINGTON,
1873.

invented

THE CALIGRAPH,
1880.

THE YÖST TYPEWRITER.

WRITING IS NO LONGER TEDIOUS AND IRKSOME, but expeditious. It is a pleasing exercise in which the process of composition is not retarded as in pen writing, but is assisted.

THE TRUE AIM OF ALL ETIQUETTE is to avoid causing others annoyance or pain, yet it is a melancholy fact that even the MOST POLISHED AND EDUCATED MEMBERS OF SOCIETY encroach upon the time of their friends, and drive them to the verge of despair by reason of the illegible nature of their written communications. The writing of the YÖST TYPEWRITER is accomplished in a third of the time consumed where the pen is the medium, and it is as legible as a well printed book.

FROM A HYGIENIC POINT OF VIEW

Typewriting is a great improvement on the old method. Pen writers sit at a desk or table with the body more or less contorted, and the chest contracted. The Typist, on the other hand, sits, like a pianist, at perfect ease, with no strain either upon the body or the eyes.

IT IS NOT WONDERFUL THEN

that £50,000 worth of Yost Writing Machines have been sold during the first years' business, among the purchasers being—

HER MAJESTY'S GOVERNMENT.
KING WILLIAM II. of Wurtemberg.
THE EARL OF DYSART.
VISCOUNT EMLYN.
MR. RIDER HAGGARD.

THE EMPEROR OF GERMANY.
THE DUKE OF NEWCASTLE.
THE EARL OF SEFTON.
THE LORD MAYOR OF LONDON.
MRS. CAMPBELL PRAED.

Eminent people, in all ranks, testify that the Yost has lightened their labour and doubled their capacity for work.

The Yost can be seen in operation at the Head Office, or at any of the Branch Depots,

PUBLIC OPINION,

30, Maiden Lane, W.C.

IS the only weekly paper giving an unbiassed epitome of all the leading newspapers of the world. Every phase of opinion is adequately represented, the salient points of difference being carefully digested and contrasted in a condensed form for the reader's judgment. In addition to an elaborate abstract of current political opinion many columns are devoted to extracts from what is best in contemporary literature, whilst at the time the progress of modern thought in every branch of science is represented by quotations from the technical papers. Latest financial information.

Every Friday, Price 2d.; per annum, 10/10;
Colonies, 13/-, post free.

ESTABLISHED 1861.

THE GUARDIAN.

THE GUARDIAN is a Weekly Journal of Politics, Literature, Science, and the Fine Arts, Ecclesiastical, Home, Foreign, and Colonial News. Its promoters are Churchmen; and they endeavour to maintain that character in the treatment of Ecclesiastical subjects, and its Correspondence columns are open to all shades of opinion. Special reports are given of the Meetings of Convocation, Church Congress, and all important matters connected with the Church and Education. Great care is taken with the Parliamentary Intelligence, Special attention is paid to the Foreign and Colonial News, a full digest of which is given every week, illustrated by original correspondence. Every effort is made, in the selection of news, of works chosen for review, and by the exclusion of all objectionable matter, to render THE GUARDIAN a good Family and Literary Newspaper.

THE GUARDIAN is issued every WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON, price 6d., by post 6½., and is supplied regularly, post-free, direct from the office, to Subscribers paying in advance only, at—per Quarter (13 numbers), 7s.; per Half-year (26 numbers), 13s. 6d.; per Year (52 numbers), £1 5s. To Subscribers abroad—£1 10s. per annum.

Advertisements must reach the Office before 6 p.m. on Monday, and in any urgent case of a short advertisement not later than 11 a.m. on Tuesday, and payment made at the time, on the following scale:—Three Lines and under, 4s.; every additional line, 9d.

On an average three words may be reckoned for the first line, and eight words for each line afterwards, the address counting as part of the Advertisement; but all Advertisements are charged according to space occupied.

In all cases where replies are to be forwarded from the Office an additional 6d. is made on each insertion.

Notices of Testimonials, Births, Marriages, and Deaths are inserted at 3s. 5d. each for two lines, and 1s. for every additional line.

All letters respecting Advertisements and Subscriptions should be addressed "The Publisher," Guardian Office, 5, Burleigh-street, Strand, W.C. Money and Postal Orders, on the Post-office, 369, Strand, should be made payable to JOHN JAMES; Orders and Cheques to be crossed "London and County Bank." Postage stamps can only be received at the rate of thirteen to the shilling. If a receipt is required for a sum under 7s. a stamped envelope must be enclosed.

DEBRETT.—“A depository of information which I never open without amazement or admiration.”

—Extract from Speech of the late Lord High Chancellor Cairns, in House of Lords.

P R E F A C E.

THE heavy mortality among the Nobility and Aristocracy during the closing weeks of 1891 and the early part of the present year, has left its mark upon the pages of “Debrett,” and placed many well-known names in the lengthy “Obituary” recorded on pages x—xiii, while a County Council Election, a Dissolution of Parliament, followed by a General Election, and a subsequent change of Ministry with its accompanying shower of Honours, have all added to the labour of compiling the 1893 edition, and in making phenomenal the number of alterations and additions recorded in the present issue.

Of the principal events of the past twelve months, special mention should be made (1) of the lamented death in January of H.R.H. the Duke of Clarence and Avondale, involving a change in the line of succession to the Throne, (2) of the announcement in the “Birthday Gazette” that Her Majesty had conferred the dignity of a Peerage of the United Kingdom upon H.R.H. Prince George Frederick Ernest Albert of Wales, K.G., by the name, style, and title of Duke of York,* Earl of Inverness, and Baron Killarney, (3) of the decisions of the Committee for Privileges of the House of Lords in three claims to Peerages, in which they adjudged William Grey to be 9th Earl of Stamford and 10th Baron Grey of Groby, and Henry de Vere Vane to be 9th Baron Barnard, but refused the claim to a Barony of De Wahull, and (4) of the bestowal of more than 240 new titles and Companionships in recognition of Parliamentary, Naval, Military, Diplomatic, Colonial, Indian, Civil, and other services, rendering necessary a further increase of thirty-six pages in the size of the book.

The information furnished in "Debrett" is mainly confined to living members of the nobility and of those collaterally connected with them, and it is confidently hoped that the present edition will be found a complete repertory of useful knowledge concerning every living personage among the Titled Classes of the realm, the Companions of the various Orders, and the Collateral Branches of all Peers and Baronets (for very recent events see "Occurrences during Printing"), and that its sphere of usefulness as an accurate book of reference has been largely increased by the insertion of the residences at home and abroad of thousands of junior members (male and female) of the families mentioned; moreover, "Debrett" is the ONLY VOLUME that supplies facts anent the issue of living females whose fathers were descended in the male line from a first Peer or Baronet, or gives biographical sketches of Companions of the Distinguished Service Order.

In the preparation of the work communication has, during the past four months, been held with upwards of thirty-five thousand correspondents in all parts of the world, and no expense has been spared in endeavouring to make the volume accurate. The constant requisition for old editions of "Debrett," and the early date after publication at which recent issues have run out of print, afford ample proof of its recognised value for purposes of reference.

Caligraph Typewriter

USED BY

The Nobility, H.M. Government, Leading Railways, Insurance Companies, Bankers, and Merchants.

THE time was when many men considered a typewritten letter an affront, but that time is past. The advantages of neatness and legibility have thoroughly upset such notions, and the Typewriter is rapidly coming into general use. Do you use one? If not, why not? If your correspondence is small the Caligraph is a luxury, but like all luxuries it soon becomes a necessity. If your correspondence is large it is already a necessity. If you do not write your own letters buy one for your Secretary; he can use it to good advantage with a saving of time and money. When you are convinced that you can use a typewriter, to advantage, we want to convince you that the Caligraph is the best. It is the only American machine manufactured in England, and combines the advantages of American ingenuity and English skill.

BABY'S SOUVENIR

❖ BY H. O. KAPLAN. ❖

With 23 coloured and other illustrations printed in fac-simile of the original aquarelles by

Frances M. Brundage.

An entirely novel high art presentation book, most artistically designed by Frances M. Brundage, excellently adapted for parents to purchase for a christening or birthday gift book. This most admirably bound and exquisitely illustrated gift book consists of over seventy pages, printed in splendid style by Goupil, of Paris, on hand-made paper, and is intended to preserve a record of the life of a child from its birthday to its majority. The following are some of the principal subjects—"Naming of Baby," "Baby's first Photograph," "The Lock of Hair," "Baby's first Word," "Baby's first Tooth," "Baby's first Steps," "Baby's first Christmas," "First Day at School," "Record of Birthdays," "Baby's first Prayer," etc., etc., and spaces are reserved for filling in these most interesting particulars.

A LITERARY TREAT WILL BE FOUND IN

Hans Christian Andersen's

Correspondence

With the Grand Duke of Saxe-Weimar, the late Charles Dickens, and others,

EDITED BY FREDERICK CRAWFORD.

WITH A MEMOIR OF ANDERSEN AND PORTRAITS.

ANDERSEN'S letters to his friends, which have been looked forward to as a literary treat, have a genuine ring about them, and most of them appear to have been written without any thought of their ever appearing before the public. Their great charm lies in their simplicity. Free from affectation and constraint, the writer unburdens his heart to those he loves with the frankness of a little child. He had a longing for sympathy, and is throughout keenly sensitive of the smallest mark of esteem or regard, whether coming from the more exalted of his correspondents, or from his humblest friend or admirer.

Andersen was a great traveller, and a keen observer; and his simple descriptions of "many men and many cities" will be read with great interest

Portraits are given of Andersen, Charles Dickens, Schumann, Liszt, Palmerston, Mark Lemon, "Ole Bull," and H. M. Stanley.

COUGHS, COLDS, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE.—This wonderful remedy was discovered by Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE, and the word Chlorodyne coined by him expressly to designate it. There never has been a remedy so vastly beneficial to suffering humanity, and it is a subject of deep concern to the public that they should not be imposed upon by having imitations pressed upon them on account of cheapness, and as being the same thing. Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE is a totally distinct thing from the spurious compounds called Chlorodyne, the use of which only ends in disappointment and failure.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE.—Vice Chancellor Sir W. PAGE WOOD STATED PUBLICLY in Court that Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE was UNDOUBTEDLY the INVENTOR OF CHLORODYNE, that the whole story of the defendant was deliberately untrue, and he regretted to say it had been sworn to.—See THE TIMES, July 13th, 1864.

PALPITATION, HYSTERIA, COUGHS, COLDS, ETC.

From W. VESALIUS PETTI GREW, M.D., formerly Lecturer at St. George's Hospital, London.

"I have no hesitation in stating that I have never met with any medicine so efficacious as an Anti-Spasmic and Sedative. I have used it in Consumption, Asthma, Diarrhœa, and other diseases, and am perfectly satisfied with the results."

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE is a LIQUID MEDICINE which ASSUAGES PAIN OF EVERY KIND, affords a calm refreshing sleep WITHOUT HEADACHE, and INVIGORATES the NERVOUS SYSTEM when exhausted.

From W. C. WILKINSON, Esq., F.R.C.S., Spalding.
"I consider it invaluable in Phthisis and Spasmodic Cough: the benefit is very marked indeed."

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE is the ONLY PALLIATIVE in

NEURALGIA, GOUT, CANCER,

TOOTHACHE, RHEUMATISM.

From Dr. B. J. BOULTON & Co., Horncastle.

"We have made pretty extensive use of Chlorodyne in our practice lately, and look upon it as an excellent direct Sedative and Anti-Spasmic. It seems to allay pain and irritation in whatever organ, and from whatever cause. It induces a feeling of comfort and quietude not obtainable by any other remedy, and it seems to possess this great advantage over all other Sedatives, that it leaves no unpleasant after effects."

IMPORTANT CAUTION.

The IMMENSE SALE of this REMEDY has given rise to many UNSCRUPULOUS IMITATIONS.

TABLE OF PRECEDENCE.

PRECEDENCE is always derived from the father, or husband, except in the case of a Peeress in her own right.

A Dowager Peeress, or Baroness, while a widow, takes precedence of the wife of the incumbent of the title.

The children of a living Peer, or Baronet, have precedence above the children of the previous possessor, or possessors, of the title.

TITLES, ORDERS, AND DEGREES OF PRECEDENCE AND DIGNITY.

THE ROYAL CROWN.

THE HERALDIC CROWN.*

THE SOVEREIGN.

FIRST, in honour and dignity, as in power—indeed, the seat and fountain of all three—is the Sovereign, who possesses, according to Camden,

“Many rights and privileges peculiar to majesty, termed by the learned lawyers sacra sacrorum, that is, sacred and individual, or inseparable, because they cannot be severed; and the ordinary royal prerogatives, termed the flowers of his crown, in which respect they affirm that the regal material crown is adorned with flowers. Some of these are held by positive or written law, others which, by right of custom, by a silent consent of all men without law, prescription of time has allowed, the king justly enjoys.”

Among the more clearly defined prerogatives of the British monarch are those of convoking adjoining, removing, and dissolving Parliament, refusing assent to Bills, without which assent they cannot become law, increasing the number of Peers, declaring war at pleasure, choosing and appointing all commanders and officers by land and sea, and all judges, councillors, officers of state, magistrates, Archbishops, Bishops, and high ecclesiastical dignitaries; bestowing all public honours, and pardoning criminals, besides exercising many other powers, by the advice of the Cabinet Ministers, who, however, alone are responsible, the theory of English law being that the Sovereign cannot commit wrong.

Another theory of our law is that the King (or Queen) never dies—substantially, that the throne is never vacant, the succession of the heir being instantaneous. Hence the ceremony of a coronation is merely a solemn recognition and confirmation of the royal descent, and consequent right of * The Imperial State Crown was made in the year 1838 with jewels taken from old crowns and others furnished by command of Her Majesty Queen Victoria. It consists of diamonds, pearls, rubies, sapphires, and emeralds set in silver and gold; it has a crimson velvet cap with ermine border, and is lined with white silk. Its gross weight is 39 oz. 5 dwts. troy. The lower part of the band, above the ermine border, consists of a row of 129 pearls, and the upper part of the band of a row of 112 pearls, between which, in front of the crown, is a large sapphire (partly drilled) purchased for the crown by King George IV. At the back is a sapphire of smaller size, and six other sapphires (three on each side), between which are eight emeralds. Above and below the seven sapphires are 14 diamonds, and around the eight emeralds 128 diamonds. Between the emeralds and the sapphires are 16 trefoil ornaments, containing 16 diamonds. Above the band are eight sapphires, surmounted by eight diamonds, between which are eight festoons consisting of 138 diamonds. In the front of the crown, and in the centre of a diamond Maltese cross, is the famous ruby, said to have been given to Edward, Prince of Wales, son of Edward III., called the Black Prince, by Don Pedro, King of Castile, after the battle of Najera, near Vittoria, A.D. 1367. This ruby was worn in the helmet of Henry V. at the battle of Agincourt, A.D. 1415. It is pierced quite through, after the Eastern custom, the upper part of the piercing being filled up by a small ruby. Around this ruby, in order to form the cross, are 75 brilliant diamonds. Three other Maltese crosses, forming the two sides and back of the crown, have emerald centres and contain respectively 132, 134, and 130 brilliant diamonds. Between the four Maltese crosses are four ornaments in the form of the French fleur-de-lis, with four rubies in the centres, and surrounded by rose diamonds, containing respectively 85, 86, and 87 rose diamonds. From the Maltese crosses issue four imperial arches composed of oak leaves and acorns; the leaves contain 728 rose, table, and brilliant diamonds; 32 pearls form the acorns, set in cups containing 54 rose diamonds and one table diamond. The total number of diamonds in the arches and acorns is 108 brilliant, 116 table, and 559 rose diamonds. From the upper part of the arches are suspended four large pendent pear-shaped pearls, with rose diamond cups, containing 12 rose diamonds, and stems containing 24 very small rose diamonds. Above the arch stands the mound, containing in the lower hemisphere 204 brilliants, and in the upper, 244 brilliants, the zone and arc being composed of 33 rose diamonds. The cross on the summit has a rose-cut sapphire in the centre, surrounded by four large brilliants, and 108 smaller brilliants. Summary of jewels comprised in the crown:—One large ruby, irregularly polished, one large broad-spread sapphire, 16 sapphires, 11 emeralds, four rubies, 1,363 brilliant diamonds, 1,273 rose diamonds 147 table diamonds, four drop-shaped pearls, and 373 pearls.

accession, and is not necessary for the security of the title to the crown. It is, however, highly essential, inasmuch as it tends to a formal establishment of those rights which the people claim from the monarch in return for the duty and allegiance they are bound to observe towards the new Sovereign.

The coronation ceremonial is more splendid, emblematic, and elaborate in England than in any other country. Instance the anointing with oil, a practice which has been continued upwards of one thousand years; the formal crowning, the several religious ceremonies, besides the insignia of royalty, among which are a ring, to signify faithfulness; a bracelet, for good works; a sword, for vengeance; purple robes, to attract reverence; and a diadem, to blazon glory. Some of these forms would seem to be of Judaical origin.

The derivation of the word king, is, according to Chamberlayne, from the Saxon word König, or Cyning, which comes from Can, intimating power, or Ken knowledge, wherewith every sovereign, should be invested.

Some of the titles of our Saxon kings were very quaint and pompous. These were discontinued by the Normans, and it was not until Henry IV. adopted the title of "Grace," that prefixes came into use. These prefixes were successively changed (at the pleasure of the sovereigns themselves) into "Excellent Grace," "High and Mighty Prince," and "Highness," until Henry VII. adopted those of "Majesty" and "Dread, Sovereign."

In 1876 Queen Victoria was proclaimed Empress of India, but the Imperial Dignity is not adopted in any part of Her Majesty's dominions except India.

The word "Sire," usually heads letters addressed to a male sovereign.

THE HEIR-APPARENT TO THE CROWN

Is next below the Sovereign in all honour and dignity—not as participating or comparing with the latter, who stands alone and supreme, but as enjoying the largest share of the honour which flows from the crown.

No person can hold this position save a child of the Sovereign, or, if the former be dead, his, or her, direct descendant. This constant preference of the direct line to the closest collateral branch distinguishes the European from some of the Asiatic orders of succession, and tends greatly to preclude confusion and discord.

THE PRINCE OF WALES.

Since the institution of this title by Edward I. the Sovereign's first-born son has been invariably created Prince of Wales. As there is no succession of Prince of Wales, the title at every vacancy becomes merged in the Crown, and is only renewed by the Sovereign's pleasure. Thus, had George IV. died whilst Prince of Wales, his next brother, though heir-apparent, would not have been the Prince of Wales.

The Sovereign's first-born son is Duke of Cornwall from the moment of his birth, and becomes immediately entitled to the revenues of his duchy, which, during the period the title is in abeyance, are held at usufruct and accumulation for the benefit of the next Duke. Forty years ago the revenues of the property, which had been grossly mismanaged, were about £14,000 per annum, but under the able superintendence of the late Prince Consort, a system of energy, carefulness and thrift was introduced, through which they have risen to more than £50,000 per annum—the income now enjoyed in virtue of his duchy rights by the present illustrious

PLUME OF THE PRINCE OF WALES.*

Prince of Wales. Upon attaining the age of twenty-one His Royal Highness became possessed of a very large sum of ready-money, arising from the accumulation of the annual revenues, and out of this fund the Sandringham estate was purchased.

By course of the civil law he sits at the right hand of the Sovereign in all solemn assemblies of state and honour; but he has no kingly prerogatives, and acknowledges reverence to his sovereign.

An old statute of Edward III. enacts "that to compass or imagine the death of the King's eldest son and heir is crimen læsæ majestatis" (high treason).

On the union of the Crowns of England and Scotland, King James's son (Prince Henry) was created "Prince of Great Britain and Ireland," and this nominally higher title survives in the person of the Prince of Wales; but the more venerable honour long since caused the other to fall into disuse.

The theoretical forms laid down for the ceremony of creating a Prince of Wales are thus:—

"He is presented before the King in his surcoat, cloak and mantle of crimson velvet, and girt with a belt of the same, when the King putteth a cap of crimson velvet, indented and turned up with ermine, and a coronet on his head, as a token of principality; and the King also putteth into his hand a verge of gold, the emblem of government, and a ring of gold on his middle finger, to intimate that he must be a husband to his country and a father to his children. To him are likewise given and granted letters patent, to hold the same principality, to him and his heirs, King of England, by which words the separation of this principality is for ever prohibited. The coronet placed on his head is of gold, and consists of crosses patée and fleur-de-lys, with the addition of one arch, and in the midst a ball and a cross, as hath the royal diadem, which was solemnly ordered to be used by a grant dated February 9, 1660-61, 11th Charles II., xxx. His mantle which he wears at the coronation is doubled below the elbow with ermine, spotted diamond-wise; but the robe which he wears in Parliament is adorned with bars or guards of ermine, set at an equal distance one from the other, with a gold lace above each bar."

THE HEIR-PRESUMPTIVE TO THE CROWN.

When the Sovereign is without issue, or surviving issue, and the latter have died childless, the nearest heir (male or female) is Heir-Presumptive, and as such is the chief person of the realm next to the Sovereign.

* In 1876 H.R.H. the Prince of Wales adopted the old heraldic plume, the feathers in which are represented perfectly erect.

OTHER MEMBERS OF THE ROYAL FAMILY.

The rank and position of these are defined in the general "Tables of Precedence."

The clauses of the Royal Marriage Act prohibiting the marriage of personages connected with the Blood Royal without the sanction of the Sovereign, but considerably modified by a conditional proviso, or door of grace, do not enter into the specific subject of this notice.

THE ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY*

Is the first peer of England next to the Royal Family, preceding not only all Dukes, but all the great officers of the Crown. The Bishop of London is his provincial Dean, the Bishop of Lincoln his Chancellor, and the Bishop of Rochester his Chaplain. "It belongs to him to crown the King;" and the Sovereign and his or her Consort, wherever they may be located, are speciales domestici

parochiani Arch. Cant. (parishioners of the Lord Archbishop of Canterbury).

The ecclesiastical and secular power of the Archbishop of Canterbury was formerly enormous, especially when he held the office of Lord Chancellor; and instances are not few in which the influence of the Archiepiscopal see was formidable to the throne itself. Since the Reformation, the Archbishop's secular influence may be said to have altogether ceased.

The Archbishop of Canterbury is Primate of all England, is entitled to the prefix of "Your Grace," and styles himself "By Divine Providence, Lord Archbishop of Canterbury."

THE LORD HIGH CHANCELLOR

Is, in virtue of his office, the second peer in the Kingdom, and alone authorises all patents, writs and grants, by affixing the Great Seal thereto. He collates the ecclesiastical benefices in the gift of the Crown, is Keeper of the great Seal, head of the Legal Profession in England, and † An Archbishop impales his arms with those of his See, but does not bear crest, supporters, or motto.

President of the Supreme Court of Judicature, and discharges in the House of Lords functions analogous to those of the Speaker of the House of Commons.

THE LORD CHANCELLOR'S MACE.

For many years the Lord High Chancellor when not of Baronial rank) has been invariably created a peer concomitantly with his appointment.

THE ARCHBISHOP OF YORK

Is the third peer in the Kingdom, and precedes all secular peers, except the Lord High Chancellor. He is "Primate of England," has the privilege of crowning the Consort, and is her perpetual chaplain. He is entitled to the prefix of "Your Grace," styles himself "By Divine Permission, Lord Archbishop of York," and possesses within his own province powers nearly equivalent to those exercised by the Archbishop of Canterbury within his.

THE NOBILITY.*

The nobility of this kingdom is divided into two orders—the greater and the less—the former consisting of all the degrees from a Baron upwards and inclusive; the latter of the baronets, knights, esquires, and gentlemen. Practically, however, the only recognised noblemen among us are the peers spiritual and temporal, and those who by courtesy bear titles in virtue of their immediate connection with noble houses.

To illustrate the meaning of courtesy-titles, reference may be made to the terms in which a Royal Commission is issued. The first Earl Russell, a younger son of the sixth Duke of Bedford, was, before his elevation to the peerage, designated by courtesy Lord John Russell, whereas, strictly, he would have been simply "John Russell, Esq.," but for the prefix of "right honourable," derived from his political offices. In Parliament and society he was invariably spoken of as "Lord John Russell," and addressed as "My Lord," but in Royal proclamations and other documents his designation was "The Right Honourable John Russell, commonly called Lord John Russell."

Practically, the degrees of the nobility in the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland are five—viz., Dukes, Marquesses, Earls, Viscounts, and Barons to which may be added a sixth—viz., those Archbishops, Bishops, and Lords of Appeal in Ordinary, who are entitled to a seat in the House of Peers, and possess all the faculties and privileges of Peers of Parliament during the time they hold office.

The ceremony of admitting a peer into the House

* SCOTCH AND IRISH PEERS.—Scotch peers take precedence of British peers of the same rank created since the Union with Scotland and Irish peers created before the Union with Ireland, in like manner, take place of British peers created since. Irish peers of later creation than the Union, rank according to the dates of their patents, among the peers of Great Britain and Ireland. Peers holding only Scotch or Irish titles do not sit of individual right in the House of Peers, but only as representatives of their fellow-peers. Irish Representative Peers are elected by their fellow-peers for life.

Scotch Representative Peers are elected by their fellow-peers for one Parliament only. Irish peers (not being representative peers) are permitted to represent English constituencies in the House of Commons, but cannot sit for Irish counties or boroughs.

Scotch peers are not entitled to sit in the House of Commons.

of Lords is thus; He is introduced by two peers who conduct him to the Lord Chancellor. His patent and writ of summons are carried by Garter King of Arms, who presents them to the Lord Chancellor; this dignitary directs the same to be read, the oaths are administered, the peer takes his seat, and then, rising, returns to the Chancellor, who congratulates him upon his succession, or elevation, as the case may be.

The privileges enjoyed by peers were formerly very numerous. Some of these would now be considered intolerable, while others have fallen into desuetude from the extinction of the matters and circumstances to which they relate. But some important ones continue, e.g. :—

They are free from arrests for debt, as being the Queen's hereditary counsellors; therefore a peer cannot be outlawed in any civil action, and no attachment lies against his person; but if he become a bankrupt he cannot vote until his bankruptcy proceedings are ended.

They are free from attending courts leet, or sheriffs' turns, or, in cases of riot, the posse comitatus.

In criminal causes they are tried by peers only, who give their verdict simply upon their honour, in a court specially fitted up at the expense of the Crown, in the middle of Westminster Hall.

They may sit with their heads covered in courts of justice.

Each peer may qualify a certain number of chaplains as follows :—An Archbishop, eight; a Duke, six; a Marquess, five; an Earl, five; a Viscount, four; a Bishop, six; a Baron, three. A Knight of the Garter may qualify three; and a Peeress, being a widow, two.

To secure the honour of, and to prevent the spreading of any scandal upon peers or any great officers of the realm, by reports, there is an express law, called scandalum magnatum, by which any man convicted of making a scandalous report, though true, against a peer of the realm, is condemned to an arbitrary fine, and to remain in custody till the same be paid.

Barons Kingsale and Forester are the only peers permitted to be covered in the royal presence without permission.

In case of a poll tax, peers bear the greatest burden, as everyone is then taxed according to his degree.

A peer may not interfere in any way in the election of members to parliament.

Duke.—This title is the highest of nobility. We have not

DUKE'S CORONET.

"princes" outside of the blood-royal. Indeed, so pre-eminent in dignity is the ducal title, that each royal prince on, or shortly after attaining his majority, is usually created a Duke, as if the latter were the superior distinction. Thus, Prince Alfred was created Duke of Edinburgh, and Prince Arthur, Duke of Connaught.

Much learned ingenuity has been expended in endeavouring to trace the origin of a title which has, in one meaning or another, existed since the origin of the Latin tongue—dux (a leader) indicating a leading man or chieftain; and, however antiquarians may refine upon the matter, there cannot be any doubt that the word "duke" means a man of the highest rank and mark.

Hollingshead, in his "Chronicle," fo. 235, says that "Kinge Edgar's second wife was called Alfreda, the daughter of Orgar, Duke of Devon, by whom hee had yssue, Egeltred, that was afterwards Kinge of this lande and isied benri Powlis."

This, however, may have been only an official title, for the word frequently appears in Saxon chronicles in a sense inferior to that of earl, bishop, and even abbot.

Otho the Great, about the year 970, is supposed to have been the first to regularly constitute the title of duke, as one of honour and nobility; and it became hereditary in France and other parts of the Continent long before it was adopted in England. It has been surmised that one cause of its not being introduced earlier in England was the reluctance of the Norman kings—themselves Dukes of Normandy—to grant subjects a title resembling their own.

The following passage from a quaint old writer gives an authentic account of the creation of the first English Duke :—

"The first Duke that I finde sence the Conquest, was made by Kinge Eduard III. xj. regni sui; where he made of the eardome of Cornweyle a dutchye, and created the Black Prince, his eldest sonne, Prince of Wales, Duke of Cornweyle, and Earl of Chester, and I have a dede made by the said Black Prince, wherein his stile is, Edward Disne Fitz de Roy D'Engleterre and de France, Prince de Aquitonie et de Cales, Duc de Cornwall, Count de Chester, and Seigneur de Biscane." In former times hereditary dukes were created with the following or similar words :—

"We give and grant the name, title, state, style, place, seat, pre-eminence, honour, authority, and dignity of a Duke, and by the cincture of a sword, and imposition of a cap and coronet of gold upon his head, as also by delivering unto him a verge of gold, we do really invest," &c., but this and other ceremonies formerly attending the creation of dukes and other peers are no longer observed.

The ducal order, which was extinct, or in abeyance during Elizabeth's reign, was revived by James I. in the person of his favourite, Villiers.

The mantle or surcoat which a duke wears at a coronation of king or queen is of crimson velvet lined with white taffeta, and the mantle is doubled from the neck to the elbow with ermine, having four spots on each shoulder. His parliamentary robes are of fine scarlet cloth, lined with taffeta, and doubled with four guards of ermine at equal distances, with gold lace above each guard, and tied up to the left shoulder by a white riband; his cap is of crimson velvet lined with ermine, having a gold tassel on the top; his coronet is a circle of gold chased as jewelled and set round with eight strawberry leaves. He is styled His Grace, and by the Sovereign in public instruments, Our right trusty and right entirely beloved cousin, with the addition of and counsellor when a member of the Privy Council.

The eldest son of a duke bears by courtesy one of his father's inferior titles, and each younger son and daughter is addressed by his or her Christian name, as "Lord John," or "Lady Mary."

Marquess is a title apparently of German origin, and, as the name implies, is derived from the Government of marches, or frontier provinces; it was called by the Saxons, Markin Reeve; and by the Germans, Markgravi. It has the next place of honour to that of a duke, and was introduced many years subsequent to the establishment of that dignity in England.

The first on whom that honour was conferred was the great favourite of King Richard II., Robert de Vere, Earl of Oxford, who was created Marquess of Dublin, and placed in Parliament between the dukes and earls. The marquesses were created by the King by "cincture of the sword, and imposition of the cap of honour and dignitie, with the coronet, as also by the delivery of a charter or writing." The creations, however, were not very numerous, and it would appear that the new honour was not greatly coveted by the old nobility, as in the Parliamentary Rolls it is recorded that

"John de Beaufort, Earl of Somerset, was by Richard II. created Marquess of Dorset, and when, afterwards, Henry VI. deprived him of that title, the Commons of England made humble suit in Parliament to the King, that he would restore him to his title of marquess. The Earl himself opposed the petition, saying that 'It was a new dignitie, and altogether unknown to his ancestors, and that, therefore, he neither craved it, nor in any wise would he accept it.'"

The creation to this dignity was formerly attended with nearly the same ceremony as that of a duke; but it now simply takes place by patent under the Great Seal.

The coronation robes are of crimson velvet lined with taffeta, and have four guards of ermine on the right side and three on the left, set at equal distances, with gold lace above each guard, and tied up to the left shoulder by a white riband; the cap is of crimson velvet lined with ermine, having a gold tassel at top; the coronet is of gold chased as jewelled, with four silver balls, and golden strawberry leaves mixed alternately, round, of nearly equal height.

The general style of a marquess is Most Honourable; and he is styled by the King or Queen, Our right trusty and entirely beloved cousin, and counsellor when of the Privy Council.

The eldest son of a marquess bears by courtesy one of his father's inferior titles, and each younger son and daughter is addressed by his or her Christian name, as "Lord George," or "Lady Jane."

Earl.—It has been customary to identify this ancient English dignity with the Latin Comes "Companion" French, Comte; Angliçè, Count), one of the duties or privileges of possessors of the title being to accompany the King, and to give counsel, advise, and aid on important occasions. We are told that "Constantine the Great, in order to secure the attachment of his followers, created a number of these Comites, as Comes Domesticorum (Master of the Household), Comes Stabuli (Master of the Horse); also such dignities as Comes Orientis, Comes Africa (Lieutenant of the East, of Africa, &c.) Thence ever after the name of Comes imparted dignity; and the authority or government, which was at first temporary, was afterwards enjoyed for life. Moreover, in process of time, when the Roman empire was divided into many kingdoms, this title was retained, and our English Saxons called those in Latin Comites and Consules, whom, in their own language they called Ealdormen, the same which the Danes in their tongue called Eorlas, that is honourable, as Ethelward writes, by which name, somewhat softened, they are called by us, at this day, Earls." In the Saxon times the title was one of the highest dignity and eminence. Earl Godwin occupied a rank much higher than that of any noble of the present day. It was even applied to sovereign princes. Thus, William the Conqueror, sovereign of Normandy, is frequently called Earl of Normandy, and William of Malmesbury never mentions him otherwise. The Norman kings adopted the Saxon title, and the first earls created were dignitaries of enormous power, holding not only proprietary, but virtually sovereign sway over large districts of country. Hugh Lupus, Earl of Chester, was a real potentate within his territory, though exercising his authority in the name of the king; and so with others. But the number of earls increased rapidly, whilst the possibility of furnishing them with land and revenue diminished in proportionate ratio, so that various devices were resorted to for the purpose of furnishing the new creations with the means of support.* The dignity of the distinction was thus depreciated. Earls were then created with the name of some place appended to the title, and the third penny of the shire† was assigned unto them; for example, the Empress Maud, daughter and heir to King Henry I., created an earl in the following words:—

"I, Maud, daughter of King Henry, and ladee of the Englishmen, doe give and grant unto Geffry de Maregavil for his service, and to his heirs after him, by right of inheritance, to be Earle of Essex, and to have the third pennie out of the Sheriff's Court, issuing of all pleas, as an Earle should have thorow his countrie in all things."

The earl's coronation robe is the same as a duke's or marquess's, except that he has only three guards of ermine and gold lace; his cap is the same as theirs. It is uncertain when the coronets of dukes, marquesses, and earls were settled. Sir Robert Cecil, Earl of Salisbury, Viscount Cranbourne, was the first of that degree who wore a coronet. An earl's coronet is a circle of gold chased as jewelled and bordered with ermine, heightened with eight pyramidal points, or rays, placed alternately with as many strawberry leaves; a large silver ball is placed on the top of each ray. His style is Right Honourable, and he is addressed by the King or Queen as Our right trusty and entirely beloved cousin, and counsellor when of the Privy Council.

The eldest son of an earl bears by courtesy one of his father's inferior titles; each younger son is styled "Honourable," as the "Hon. Robert;" and each daughter is styled "Lady," as "Lady Emma."

Viscount (Viscomes) was anciently the name of him who held the chief office under an earl. The latter being often at Court, the viscount was his deputy to look after the affairs of the county. In the reign of Henry VI., 1439, the title became a degree of honour, and was made hereditary. The first viscount in England, created by patent, was John, Lord Beaumont, who was by the above monarch created Viscount Beaumont, and he gave him precedence above all barons.

The coronation robes of a viscount are the same as an earl's, with the exception that he has only two rows of plain white fur on his parliamentary robe; his cap is the same, and the golden circle of his coronet is surmounted by fourteen silver balls. His style is Right Honourable, and he is addressed by the King or Queen as Our right trusty and well-beloved cousin.

All children of Viscounts bear the courtesy-title of "Honourable," as the "Hon. Henry," or the "Hon. Margaret."

* Immediately after the Conquest earls began to be feudal, hereditary, and parliamentary—that is, by fee or tenure, by service, by inheritance and by lands. In the Domesday Book they were named earls without any addition—Earl Hugh, Earl Roger, &c.
† Of course this source of provision had a limit, and at a subsequent period the monarch was accustomed to assign pensions, not only to earls, but to other persons whom he ennobled in the following proportions:—Viscounts, a fee of 20 marks; Earls, of £20; Marquesses, a fee of 40 marks, and Dukes of £40, out of some particular part of the royal revenue. A creation fee of 100 marks was not settled; but Charles I., when he created Montjoy Blount Lord Mountjoy, of Thuroton, Derbyshire, assigned to him and his issue male a creation fee of 20 marks per annum.

Bishops.—The Bishops of England, with six exceptions,* are also barons of the kingdom and of Parliament. To these, says Camden:—

“By right and custom it appertained to be, with the rest of the peers personally present at all Parliament whatsoever, there to consult, to handle, to ordain, decree, and determine in regard of the baronies which they held of the king.”

Bishops take precedence of the temporal barons, and it would seem that at one time their degree of precedence went even higher, for—

“At the coronation of Charles II. it was expressly ordered in doing homage to the king, that, according to ancient custom, the archbishops and bishops should precede all the lay lords, and even the Duke of York.”

The Bishops of London, Durham, and Winchester have precedence over all other bishops, who rank according to the seniority of their consecrations.

A bishop resigning his see ceases to be a peer of Parliament.

Every bishop is entitled to the prefix of Lord, and styles himself “Right Reverend Father in God, by Divine Permission, Lord Bishop of —.”

The mitre, placed over the arms of a bishop, is a round cap, pointed and cleft at the top, from which hangs two pendants, fringed at the ends; it is surmounted by a fillet of gold, set with precious stones. The mitre of the Bishop of Durham (as nominally Count Palatine of Durham) is, however, represented as issuing out of a ducal coronet.

The Bishops of Ireland who were consecrated prior to the Disestablishment Act of 1868 are entitled to the prefix of “Lord,” and though retaining their former precedence, have not seats in the House of Lords. All Archbishops and Bishops of the Church of Ireland and of the Roman Catholic Church have the precedence which belonged to the Archbishops and Bishops of the Established Church of Ireland before the passing of the Irish Church Act of 1869, and they rank inter se according to the dates of their consecration or translation.

A bishop impales his arms with those of the see, but he does not bear crest, supporters, or motto.

The wives and children of bishops have not any social precedence.

Baron.†—Much obscurity prevails as

* The six Junior Bishops, not being of London, Durham, or Winchester, have not seats in the House of Lords. The Bishop of Sodor and Man has a seat in the House of Lords, but does not vote, as he is a legislator in the Isle of Man.

† Barons are commonly styled Lords:—e.g., Lord Coleridge.

to the ancient meaning, and even derivation of, the word baron; and eccentric speculations have been indulged in with respect to their ancient position. When the title was introduced into England is uncertain, but it is probable that its original name in England was Vavassour, which the Dares changed into Thane, and the Normans into Baron. It never occurs as a title of dignity in Saxon annals. By some it was supposed to have originally meant a hired soldier; by others, a free man; by others, a man equal to any other man; and so on. It is certain, however, that as a title of dignity it is of very ancient date in some parts of the Continent. Gregory Taronensis writes of “the Barons of Burgundie, as well Bishops as other Leudes,” and other writers mention it in equally good company. But though the Normans introduced it into England, it was some time before it implied a man of distinguished mark. Earls had their barons under them, and charters are extant in which earls addressed them thus: “To all my barons, as well French as English, greeting.” Even citizens of good note were called barons. The salient fact, however, is, that the barons of England soon rose to be the great moving power in the State, and how the title was accounted may be judged from a summons of Henry III. to the High Court of Parliament:—

“For he, after many troubles and enormous vexations betwene the King himselfe and Simon of Montfort, with other barons, and after appeased, did decree and ordaine that all those earls and barons of the realme of England, unto whom the King himselfe vouchsafed to direct his writs of summons, should come unto his Parliament, and none others.”

The date of this (the first precept) is 49 Henry III., 1264. The first baron created by PATENT was John Beauchamp de Holt, created Baron Kidderminster, by Richard II. The fact appears to be that the title or dignity of baron, at first vague and uncertain, like other designations and distinctions of disturbed times, was, like those, mellowed and moulded, with the growth of constitutional law and defined right, until it has taken its present intelligible position amongst English orders and degrees of honour.

The succession to baronies by writ is not limited to heirs male, but is vested in heirs general. In the event of the death of a baron by writ without male issue the title will fall into abeyance should he leave no or more daughters, and will so continue until only one daughter or the sole heir of one of the daughters survive. The crown can, however, at any time terminate the abeyance in favour of any one of the co-heiresses, but it cannot alienate the barony from the representatives of the first baron.

When a baron is called to the House of Peers by writ of summons the writ is in the Queen's name.

The robes of a baron have but two guards of white fur, with as many rows of gold lace; in other respects they are the same as those of other peers. King Charles II. granted a coronet to the barons, who till his reign wore only a plain circle of gold. It is formed of six silver balls, set at equal distances on a circle of gold bordered with ermine.

A baron is styled Right Honourable, and by the sovereign Right trusty and well-beloved.

The children of barons bear the courtesy title of Honourable.

LORDS OF APPEAL IN ORDINARY

Of whom there may not be more than four, are appointed by Patent. They rank as barons for life, and each is entitled, so long as he holds office, to a writ of summons to attend, and to sit and vote in the House of Lords.

They hold office during good behaviour, notwithstanding the demise of the crown, but may be removed from such office, on the address of both Houses of Parliament.

The dignity of a Lord of Parliament does not descend to their heirs. Their wives rank as baronesses, and are entitled to the prefix of "Lady," but their children have not any social precedence.

The robes of a Lord of Appeal in Ordinary are the same as Barons.

A Lord of Appeal in Ordinary is styled Right Honourable.

BARONETS.

The title of Baronet is of ancient date, and was originally given to a class of Bannarets who were hereditary Barons of Parliament, and occupied the same position as the existing order, viz., between the great Barons (now peers) and lesser Barons, or Knights and gentlemen.

By the statutes of Richard II. every Archbishop, Bishop, Abbot, Prior, Duke, Earl, Baron, Baronet, and Knight of the Shire, was commanded to appear in Parliament according to ancient usage, and in an attain under Henry VI., one of the jury challenged himself because his ancestors had been Baronets and Seigneurs des Parlements.

This degree of nobility also existed in Ireland, where it was hereditary, in certain families. Thus, among others, St. Leger was Baronet of Stemarge; Fitzgerald, Baronet of Burchurch; Welleslye, Baronet of Narraghe (ancestor of the Duke of Wellington); and Nangle, Baronet of the Navan. These Baronets were descended from some lesser barons, or gentlemen, whom Edward III. had been advised to summon by writ, to serve and sit as barons in his next Parliament, in order that by their votes he might carry his measures in defiance of the opposition of the Ecclesiastical Lords, who had greatly crossed him in his designs. These persons having been summoned for one Parliament only did not retain their baronial rank, and were afterwards styled Baronets.

The circumstance of the discovery by Sir Robert Cotton, an eminent heraldic antiquary, of Letters Patent of the 13th Edward III., conferring the dignity of baronet on William de la Pole and his heirs, in return for a sum of money of which the King and his army stood greatly in need, is said to have decided King James I. on reviving this rank, and constituting it an hereditary dignity.

The existing baronetage of England dates from 1611, in which year James I. established it by Letters Patent under the Great Seal; in 1619 he further extended the order to Ireland, and in 1624

The object of instituting this order in England and Ireland was to promote the plantation of Ulster, and to this end each baronet was required to pay into the Exchequer, upon receiving his patent under the Great Seal, the sum of £1,200 for fees of honour, and for maintaining thirty soldiers in Ireland for three years, at the rate of eightpence per diem each man. The baronetage of Nova Scotia was established with a view to colonise that country.

Every person who sought the dignity of a baronet was compelled to give proof that he was a gentleman of blood (i.e., descended on the father's side from a grandfather who bore arms), possessed a good reputation, and had an annual revenue of not less than £1,000.

Baronets are frequently and erroneously described as belonging to an order of hereditary knighthood. This mistake doubtless arose from the circumstance that all the first Baronets were knighted, and that the eldest sons of Baronets had the right to demand knighthood on attaining the age of twenty-one, and were, after the death of their fathers, known as "knights-Baronets." A baronet does not belong to any order of knighthood, and is not a knight until he has been so dubbed. That the baronetage was never intended as an order of knighthood is moreover evidenced from the fact that baronetesses have been created, e.g., Dame Mary Bolles, of Osberton, Notts, was in 1635 made a Baronetess of Nova Scotia, with remainder to her heirs whatsoever: and in 1686 King James II. conferred a baronetcy on Cornelius Spellman, a General in the States of Holland, with a special clause conferring on his mother the rank and title of a Baronetess of England.

The eldest sons or heirs apparent of Baronets whose patents are dated prior to December 19th, 1827, have, upon attaining their majority, the privilege of demanding knighthood. This claim is, however, seldom made, possibly because George IV., on the date before referred to, ordered that all letters-patent that might thereafter be granted to confer baronetcies should be made without any such clause as is before mentioned, though this order was made without in any way prejudicing letters-patent previously granted, or to the rights and privileges of any baronet, or his heirs male. Ludlow Cotter, son of Sir James Lawrence Cotter, 4th baronet of Rockforest, in 1874, when 21 years of age, received the honour of knighthood, and this is the latest instance of the privilege being exercised.

The Baronets of Nova Scotia were granted by Charles I. (17th November, 1629), permission to wear about the neck "an orange tawny silk ribbon whereon shall be pendant in a scutcheon argent, a saltire azure thereon an inescutcheon of the armes of Scotland, with an Imperial Crown above the scutcheon and encircled with this motto Fax mentis Honestæ Glorici."

The Baronets of England and Ireland applied to Charles I. for permission to wear the Ulster Badge in a similar manner to that of the Baronets of Nova Scotia, and it is believed the King granted their request, as the badge was so worn in the 17th century, and specimens of it made for this purpose still exist. Sir George Duckett, a few years ago, exhibited at the South Kensington Museum the Ulster Badge worn by Sir Thomas Frankland, 1st bart., of Thirkeby (creation, 1662) on a diplomatic mission to Spain. Sir George Duckett has since sold the badge, which was originally set in diamonds, to a descendant of the Frankland family.

The Baronets of England, of Scotland, of Great Britain and of Ireland, rank among themselves according to the dates of their respective patents.

The order of Baronets, though created for an ephemeral object which its members did not accomplish, is now a dignified degree of hereditary distinction, at the head of the lesser nobility of adopted steps to create a Scottish branch, and which steps were carried out in 1625 by his son, Charles I.

the British empire; and the title is bestowed, and willingly accepted, as the reward of merit, or eminence in any pursuit or position. Every gentleman upon being created a baronet is required to record his pedigree in one of the Colleges of Arms. On December 6th, 1782, King George III. promulgated an order in which every baronet was required to register his pedigree, and to receive a certificate from one of the Colleges of Arms. This order, however, gave such umbrage to a large portion of the then existing baronets, that his Majesty revoked it, but ordained that it should remain in force as to subsequent creations.

A baronet's wife is entitled to the prefix of either "Dame" or "Lady."

KNIGHTS.

Though knights are ranged low upon the lists of precedence, their rank is not only the most ancient, but the most illustrious; for in former ages all men distinguished by valour or military service became knights, and admittance to the order of knighthood was a valued object.

Knighthood is essentially an institution of the days of chivalry. The latter word has itself an affinity with horsemanship, and knights-bachelors all equites aurati (golden-spurred horsemen). The Roman knight was equus "a horseman," and his rank was Eques, next below the Senatorial. In other countries, the ranks answering to our knights-bachelors indicate by their names their original occupation as military equestrians; hence the German reiter, the French chevalier, &c. The Germans, however, have another appellation, Knecht, from which our own word knight is derived.

The martial kings of the Franks used to give arms, with many solemnities, to their sons, and others, and to gird them with a sword; and our own King Alfred, when he made his nephew Athelstane a knight, gave him a scarlet mantle set with precious stones, and a Saxon sword with a "golden scabbard." Further on in the course of time, we find the ceremony of installation assuming a solemnly religious character, including previous confession and absolution, vigils in the church, &c. "And after the gospel," according to Ingulphus, who flourished shortly before the Norman invasion, "the priest was to put the sword, being previously blessed, upon the knight's neck, with his benediction; and thus, after he had heard mass again and received the sacrament, he became a lawful knight."

For a long time ecclesiastics claimed the duty and privilege of dubbing knights. William Rufus was knighted by Archbishop Lanfranc; but this custom was put an end to, and afterwards kings were accustomed to send their sons to neighbouring courts to receive the honour of knighthood. Thus Henry II. sent to David king of Scots, Malcolm, King of Scots, to Henry II., and Edward I. to the King of Castile, to take of them "military or virile arms," a term used in those ages for the creation of a knight. The gilt spurs, the privilege of using a signet, etc., were among the conditions of knighthood. Not only the King, but the great earls, created knights, as we are told by Matthew Paris: "Here the Earl of Gloucester invested with a military girdle his brother William," and Gilbert de Clare was also knighted by Simon de Montfort. In fact, any knight could create a new one. But this was afterwards prohibited, and the privilege restricted to the Sovereign, or to some high personage deputed by him.

The title of knight was desired and granted as an honourable addition or mark of distinction to the highest dignity, name, and rank; but this was only when it was received under honourable circumstances like those just described, for the possession of property at one time entitled to knighthood; and in the reign of Henry III., freeholders with a stated income were compelled to become knights under a fine. A proclamation was issued that whoever had £15 in land and above "should be dight in his arms," and endowed with knighthood, or be fined. "to the end that England as well as Italic might be strengthened with chivalry." But those knights in virtue of property, simply called milites, held a very different position from the milites gladio cincti, or knights whom the King had created by cincture of sword and belt. The latter class of dignity was highly prized, and it is certain that the obligations of such knighthood tended powerfully to elevate the mind and chasten the morals of those bound thereby, especially when the King conferred the dignity with the aid of religious ceremonials, when the Bishop administered the following oath:

"Sir, you that desire to receive the order of knighthood, swear, before God, and this holy book, that you will not fight against the King, who now bestoweth the order of knighthood upon you; you shall also swear to maintain and defend all ladies, gentlewomen, widows, and orphans; and you shall shun no adventure of your person in any way where you shall happen to be."

The oath being taken, two lords led him to the King, who drew his sword, and laid it upon his head, saying, "God and St. George make thee a good knight." Seven ladies then gird on his sword, and four knights his spurs, and other customs were observed. These ceremonies were afterwards dispensed with, and he on whom the title was conferred simply knelt down, when the King with a drawn sword slightly tapped him on the shoulder, saying to him in French, "Sois Chevalier au nom de Dieu;" that is, Be thou a knight in the name of God; afterwards adding, "Avances, Chevalier" (Arise, Sir Knight).

Some contend that knights-bachelors were not full knights, but a middle degree between knights and esquires. "There be," says Camden, "who would have bachelors so called, as one would say bas chevaliers, that is, knights of low degree; although others derive their name from the French verb battalier, which means to combat or fight it out." On the other hand, respectable writers have contended that the term "bachelor" indicates the non-descent of the title, as if the knight were unmarried. Passing by these discussions, it may be remarked without disparagement that a knight-bachelor is scarcely regarded as the equal of the member of a defined knightly order.

The wife of a knight is entitled to the prefix of either "Dame" or "Lady."

JUDGES OF COUNTY COURTS

Rank, ex officio, and only during their official life, before all Esquires,* and are entitled to the prefix of "His Honour," but neither their wives nor issue have any defined precedence.

ESQUIRES.

Amid the superfluity of discussion respecting the origin and meaning of the title of esquire, the obvious and natural conclusion is that, as the derivation is from scutifer (shield-bearer), the esquires were those who bore the shields of princes, nobles, and knights, and, being themselves of respectable quality, imparted some of that respectability (further reflected from the great persons whom they attended) to their office. They were frequently the personal friends and companions of their patrons. Thence the title became an object of ambition to gentlemen of the middle class; and Camden says that "the title of esquire, which in former times was a title of charge and office only, crept forth among other titles of dignity and worship." The same author enumerates five classes of esquires, of graduated degrees of honour. We know no such distinction at the present time, but it has been a subject of dispute amongst our most learned writers to whom the title of esquire really belongs.

It is, however, well understood that those to whom the title is of right due are noblemen's younger sons, and the elder sons of such younger sons; the sons of baronets, and the eldest sons of knights; officers of the sovereign's court and household, if holding notable employment; Companions of any order of Knighthood and their eldest sons; Companions of the Distinguished Service Order; persons to whom the Sovereign grants arms with the title of esquire; persons who are styled esquires by the Sovereign in their patents, commissions, or appointments, such as sheriffs of counties, officers in the army and navy, etc.; barristers-at-law; justices of the peace, and mayors, while in the commission, or in office; royal academicians; graduates of universities; and attorneys in colonies, where the departments of counsel and attorney are united.

GENTLEMEN.

If antiquarian controversy wax warm as to the classes entitled to the style of esquire, the qualification for the name of gentleman has engrossed still more elaborate discussion. The question is not who is above it, but who is below it; for the highest in the land is proud of being a true gentleman; and it was regarded as the highest compliment ever paid to King George IV., when, as Prince Regent, he was called "the first gentleman in Europe." But if the true gentleman stand at so exalted an elevation, the assumption of the word has become so common as to have marred its meaning. One not improbable derivation of the word gentleman is, that towards the decline of the Roman empire there were two companies of particularly distinguished soldiers, mostly of good families; one of these were called Gentiles, the other Scutarii; and it has been suggested that the titles, gentleman and esquire, may have been derived from this. Again, it is surmised that gentleman means descent from gentle lineage, to which Selden adds, that it is necessary he should follow the example of that lineage.

Solicitors, and persons in sundry other positions, are personally entitled to the addendum of "gentleman" to their names—an honour which few care to contend for, while fewer still would care to see "gent" written at the end of their names. The word "esquire" and "gentleman" have become so hackneyed, that though in their intrinsic acceptation they are highly honourable, yet as popularly written, each one is literally—nominis umbra—the shadow of a name. The following, however, may be accepted as a direct definition of the relations of gentlemen, as between each other:—

"The chief of the family takes place of any gentleman of the family, and though generally it be believed that gentlemen have no precedence one from another, yet reason and discretion allow that a gentleman of three generations should cede to a gentleman of ten, if there be not a very great disparity between their fortunes, and for the same reason that a gentleman of three generations claims precedence from any ordinary landed man who has newly acquired his lands."

MEMBERS OF THE CLERICAL, NAVAL, MILITARY, LEGAL AND MEDICAL PROFESSIONS, AND OF SOME OTHER CLASSES,

Have among themselves certain relative rank that is peculiar to each class; but, when associating together, the precedence is mostly of a local character, and being arbitrary, it does not give a defined position to any person who is excluded from the recognised "Table of Precedence."

CITIZENS AND BURGESSES.

* Camden tells us that these "are such as in their own city perform any public function, or fill any particular office, or by election have a room in our High Court of Parliament." But this description must now be considerably enlarged, and practically the name is applied to all freemen and electors.

THE NEW ÆOLIAN

Is conceded by the WORLD'S best MUSICIANS to be the GREATEST MUSICAL INVENTION of Modern Times.

By means of a novel arrangement and expression guide in this unique and wonderful instrument, any person, quite without musical knowledge, can sit down and play correctly and artistically any piece of music ever written, whether Sonata, Symphony, Opera, Waltz, Hymn, March, or Dance. It has also a keyboard which can be played, not only in the ordinary manner of other keyboard instruments, but also in combination with the automatic part, giving in the hands of the trained musician most beautiful and brilliant results. quite impossible on any other instrument.

Mere words will not convey an adequate idea of the capacity of the ÆOLIAN, it should be seen and heard. Your visit will be esteemed a favour.

Prices from £25 to £104.

A FEW OPINIONS as to the ÆOLIAN.

"I recognise it as one of the greatest inventions of the present century."—Signor LUIGI ARDITI, the Great Operatic Conductor.

"This wonderful invention is 'artistic' in the true sense of the word."—SARASATE, the Great Violinist.

"The Æolian is an instrument offering a large range of advantages, and affording new sources of pleasure alike to the Artist, the Student, and the Amateur Musician,"—Dr. TURPIN, of the London College of Organists.

"I recommend the Æolian as the simplest and best means of cultivating a taste for the works of the best composers."—A VIANESI, Ier. Chef d'Orchestre de l'Opera de Paris, Musical Director and Conductor of the Abbey and Gran Opera Company in New York.

"I find it difficult to say enough in praise of the Æolian. The quality of its tone is very charming, and I much admire the arrangement which enables even the uninitiated to produce music of the very highest class."—Lieut. DAN GODFREY, Grenadier Guards, and Professor R.A.M.

This family, the name of which was originally "De Barneval," is of great antiquity. Sir Michael de Barneval, who landed on the coast of Cork in 1172, was the first of the family who settled in Ireland. The 2nd baronet suffered severely during the Cromwellian usurpation; and of the extensive possessions then wrested from him, he obtained, after the re-establishment of the monarchy, only his castle and 2,000 acres of land. The 3rd baronet was M.P. for Meath 1689-90. This baronetcy was dormant 1744-1821.

This family is descended in a direct paternal line from Louis VIII., king of France. Charles, youngest son of this monarch, was called king of Jerusalem and Sicily, and his 2nd son, Louis, married Agnes, heiress of Beaumont, in France, whose sons took the name of Beaumont. Henry, the 4th son of Louis and Agnes, seated himself in England, and became Earl of Buchan, in Scotland. His son John, Lord Beaumont, married Eleanor, 5th daughter of Henry Plantagenet, Earl of Lancaster, grandson to King Henry III. On the death of William, Viscount Beaumont, the eldest branch became extinct. A younger branch settled at Cole Orton, temp. Edward IV., of which was Nicholas Beaumont, who died 1855, leaving, besides other issue, two sons : (1) Sir Henry, whose son, Sir Thomas, was created a baronet in 1619, and Viscount Beaumont, of Swords, Dublin, in 1622, which titles became extinct on the death of the 3rd viscount, in 1702; (2) Sir Thomas, of Stoughton, grandfather of Sir Thomas, the 1st baronet, from whom is descended the present baronet.

This family derives its origin from Ogerus de Pugeys, a Norman, who came to England with the Conqueror, and was awarded the manor of Bedingfeld. During the civil wars Sir Henry Bedingfeld, Knt., besides being imprisoned in the Tower, lost £47,000 in the King's cause. His son claimed this amount of Charles II., but that monarch, being unable to pay the money, created him a baronet. The 6th baronet assumed, in 1830, by royal license, the additional surname of Paston.

This ancient family derives its name from the town of Bellingham-in-Tyndale, co. Northumberland, where it appears to have been seated immediately after the conquest, and its descent to the present baronet is in direct male line, without any interruption, from Alan de Bellingham, who lived in time of William the Conqueror. Sir Henry Bellingham, of Bellingham, was made a knight banneret by Henry VI. after the battle of Wakefield; his son, Sir Roger, was made a banneret after the battle of Stoke in 1487, and left an only son, Sir Robert, who died without issue. Sir Edward, Gov. of Ireland 1548-9, whom Leland, in his History of Ireland, calls "a brave and experienced commander." He was servant of the Privy Chamber to Edward VI., who appointed him Lord Deputy of Ireland. Alan, of Helsington, a bencher of the Middle Temple, one of the King's Council at York, and M.P. for Northumberland 1570; his son, Sir James, was knighted by James I. in 1603, and died 1641, having married Agnes, da. of Sir Henry Curwen. His son, Sir Henry, created a baronet 1620, was M.P. for Westmoreland in all the Parliaments called by Charles I., and raised forces in the north for the royal cause; his son, Sir James, dying without issue, the title became extinct. Henry, 2nd son of Alan Bellingham, of Levens Hall, was an officer in a regiment of cavalry raised in the north for suppressing the rebellion in Ireland, and at the termination of that rebellion had lands granted him in co. Louth (which co. the Bellinghams represented 1660-1775 without intermission), now called Castle Bellingham. These lands were confirmed by patent of King Charles II., and he added to them very considerably by purchase. He died 1676, having married Miss Sibthorpe, and by her had Anne, who married Robert Bickerton, of Armagh, brother of Jane, Duchess of Norfolk, and Thomas who raised a regiment of cavalry and served as its Col. with King William in Ireland, where he acted as his guide during the march of the army from Dundalk to the Boyne, served in that action, and after it accompanied the king to Duleek. For these proofs of attachment to King William, the army of King James, in their retreat towards the Boyne, destroyed Bellingham Castle by fire. His son Henry, M.P. for Dundalk, had a son Henry, M.P. for Louth, and a daughter, Elizabeth, who married Hon. John Fortescue, uncle of the last Earl of Clermont. Alan, youngest son of Henry, married Alice, daughter and co-heiress of Rev. H. Montgomery, of Grey Abbey, co. Down, and had issue, Henry, leaving issue male which became extinct in 1822, on the death of his grandson, William Henry, an officer in the 6th Regt. Sir William, the 4th son, created a baronet in 1796, with remainder to the heirs male of his deceased father, was M.P. for Keigate, Sec. to Pitt, and a Commr. of the Navy, married Hester Frances, daughter of the Rev. the Hon. R. Cholmondeley son of George, 3rd Earl Cholmondeley.

The Berneys were seated at Berney, near Walshingham, Norfolk, at the time of the Norman Conquest, having prior thereto come from Bernay in Normandy, and given their name to the place where they became seated. It is claimed for the Berneys that they are one of the three families who (i.) settled in England before the Conquest, (ii.) have never wanted a male heir, and (iii.) have never been in trade. The 1st baronet, Sir Richard Berney, was Sheriff of Norfolk 1622, and the 4th baronet was Sheriff of Norwich 1762.

This family is descended from George Broun, who married, 15—, Jean Hay, daughter of Lord Yester, ancestor of the Marquess of Tweeddale. The dowry of the lady consisted of the famous "Coulston Pear," which her remote ancestor, Hugo de Gifford, of Yester, a famous necromancer, who died 1267, was supposed to have invested with the extraordinary virtue of securing unflinching prosperity for the family who might possess it. This pear is still preserved at Colstoun, and even when shorn of its superstitious surroundings, is, nevertheless, a wonderful vegetable curiosity. Sir George Broun, 2nd baronet, married Lady Elizabeth M'Kenzie, daughter of the 1st Earl of Cromarty, and it is reported that during the first night after her marriage when she slept at Colstoun, she dreamed she had eaten the pear. Her brother-in-law looked upon this as a bad omen, and expressed great fears that she would be an instrument to destroy the house of Colstoun. Be this as it may, Sir George sold the estates, and in 1718 was drowned with his family in the Tyne.

The family of Carew is of great antiquity in Devon and Cornwall, and claims a common descent with the Dukes of Leinster and Earls of Plymouth from Otho, a powerful English Baron temp. Edward the Confessor, whose son, Walter Fitz-Otho, was Castellan of Windsor 1078. For several generations the heads of the family are described as Barons of Carew and Hidron, but none of them sat in Parliament with the exception of Nicholas de Carew, who subscribed to the celebrated Barons' letter to the Pope in 1300; and from his second son the present family is descended in a direct line.

Sir Robert Clayton, Knight, uncle of the 1st baronet, was Lord Mayor of London 1679, and M.P. for that city for upwards of thirty years. On the landing of William of Orange he headed the department which received that Prince and conducted him in state from Henley-on-Thames to London. This gentleman gave £5,000 towards restoring Christ's Hospital, after the great fire of 1666, and erected the statue to Edward VI. which stands over the entrance to the house from Christ Church Passage. At his death, in 1707, his estates fell to his nephew, Sir William Clayton, M.P., the 1st baronet. The 2nd, 3rd, and 4th baronets were also Members of Parliament, and the 5th baronet, Gen. Sir William Robert, K.C.B., a distinguished Waterloo officer, sat as M.P. for Great Marlow (L) 1831-42

This family, which takes its name from Clifton, a small village in Nottinghamshire, traces its descent uninterruptedly from Alvaredus de Clifton, Warden of Nottingham Castle, temp. William the Conqueror, who confirmed him in the possession of his estates. The estates continued with the male representative from that time until the death in 1869 without issue of the 9th baronet, when they passed, under the will of the 5th baronet through his granddaughter Frances, to her son, Henry Robert Markham, upon his assuming the name and arms of Clifton. On the death of the 9th baronet the baronetcy devolved upon Theodore Clifton, a planter in the West Indies, claiming as eldest heir male of Robert Clifton, Esq., of Blyth, next brother of the 4th baronet. At the decease of Sir Theodore the title passed to Francis Clifton, the great-grandson and lineal descendant of James Clifton, Esq., heir male of Robert Clifton, Esq., of Blyth, grandson of the first Baronet.

Violet Annie Douglas.—Frances Louisa Helen.

The early history of this family is involved in antiquity. The earliest surname under which the family of Colquhoun is traced is that of Kilpatrick. Sir John Colquhoun, of Luss, 14th in descent from Umphridus de Kilpatrick (temp. Alexander II.), was created a baronet of Nova Scotia by Charles I. In 1654 Oliver Cromwell fined him £2,000 sterling. The 4th baronet was a member of the Union Parliament. The 7th baronet surrendered his title and obtained in 1786 the regnant of a new patent of baronetcy. The 10th baronet sat as M.P. for Dumbartonshire in 1802; and the 11th baronet was Lord-Lieut. of Dumbartonshire, and M.P. (L) therefor 1837-41.

Time cannot destroy.

This Milesian family of Connaught (name formerly O'Maolconry), derives its descent from Nial the Great, monarch of Ireland, A.D. 400. In a pedigree of the senior branch of this family, registered in the Herald's College, Dublin, in 1638, by Thorna, son of Moylin O'Maolconry, of Tullon, the said Thorna records his father as 43rd in descent from Nial the Great, but writing his own name as Conry. His son John, partly ruined in the spoliation subsequent to 1641, and entirely so by the confiscations of Cromwell in 1652, fled to France, where he attained distinction in the service of Louis XIV., and was slain at the passage of the Rhine in 1672. His eldest son received a re-grant of a small portion of his patrimony after the restoration of Charles II., which he lost upon the defeat of King James II., in 1690, at the Boyne. His brother, Fearfeasa Conry, retained a fragment of the ancient estate, part of which is still in the family's possession. From this Fearfeasa Conry the present baronet is lineally descended. The 1st baronet, K.C.H., an officer in the Royal Artillery, was principal equerry and private sec. to H.R.H. the Duchess of Kent.

The 1st baronet, Provost-Marshal and Vice-President of the Province of Connaught, greatly distinguished himself at the relief of Birr, 1642. The 2nd baronet was created, in 1661, Earl of Mountrath, in the peerage of Ireland, when the baronetcy merged in the peerage. The 7th earl and 8th baronet, having no heir, obtained in 1800 a new creation, that of Baron Castle Coote, with special remainder, which title became extinct 1827, when the baronetcy reverted to the great-great grandson of the 2nd son of 1st baronet. The 9th baronet sat as M.P. for Queen's co. (C) 1821-47, and 1852-9.

John Crosbie, of Great Crosbie, Lancashire, an ancestor of this family, settled in Ireland temp. Elizabeth. His eldest son, Patrick, received grants of land in co. Kerry and in Queen's co. for services to the Crown. The 1st baronet was his son, Sir Piers, P.C., M.P. for Queen's co., and a Gentleman of the Privy Chamber to Charles I. The estates of the 2nd baronet, Sir John, were confiscated under Cromwell. Sir Warren, the 3rd baronet, was granted a pension by the King in consideration of enormous losses sustained by him in the Great Civil War; he was also offered a peerage, but declining the honour it was conferred upon a junior branch of the family, Sir Maurice Crosbie, M.P. for Kerry 1713-58. Several members of the Crosbie family have been knighted, and two were created baronets. The Barons Brandon, Viscounts Crosbie, and Earls of Glandore (extinct titles) were descended from David, next brother of Sir Walter Crosbie, 1st baronet of the present creation. Until recently this family received the before mentioned pension from the Crown.

The 1st baronet, Sir Alexander, sat as M.P. for Aberdeenshire (Tory) 1709-22. In 1720 he lost £80,000 in the South Sea Bubble, and sacrificed the Culter estates. The 2nd baronet, Sir Alexander, having dissipated the remainder of the fortune, emigrated to America, and on April 3rd, 1730, at a general meeting of Indian chiefs at Nequisee, was crowned Commander and Chief Ruler of the Cherokee nation, a position he resigned to H.M. King George II. at Windsor on June 18th of the same year, when six Indian chiefs, who had accompanied him to England, also did homage to the King. The pecuniary resources of the 3rd and 4th baronets did not permit them to publicly assume the title; but Kenneth, the eldest son of the latter, having obtained a commission in the Army, and married a lady of some fortune, assumed the baronetcy, and was recognised as 5th baronet, but died without issue, when the title devolved upon his brother, Robert Stewart, who being aged and invalided did not assume the baronetcy. At his death the title reverted to the present baronet, who represents in the male line the ancient Earls of Buchan (Comyn), Hereditary High Constables of Scotland, and bears the plain arms of Cumming (Earl Buchan). A curious old prophecy about the house of Culter was strangely fulfilled in the person of the present baronet appearing at Culter in 1869, when the painting on the banquetting-hall came down, thus completing the first of the two following prophetic sayings of the peasantry around:—1st, "that the rightful heir to Culter was to appear the day the picture from the upper hall was removed"; 2nd, that when the other large picture now in Culter is removed Culter will pass from the Duffs to the Cummings.

William Dick, a wealthy banker, Lord Provost of Edinburgh 1638-9, was knighted in 1646, and afterwards created a baronet. He was fined £64,934 by the Parliamentarians, and afterwards, upon going to London to demand payment of moneys previously advanced upon Government security, he was imprisoned by Cromwell. At his death, in 1655, the title passed to his eldest grandson, who did not assume it, and it has since remained dormant. A baronetcy in the family was, however, revived in 1677 in the person of his grandson, James Dick, of Prestonfield, elder son of Alexander, fourth son of Sir William. This gentleman, a merchant of great eminence and wealth, was Lord Provost of Edinburgh 1682-3. Not having male issue, he procured, in 1707, a new patent of baronetcy with remainder to the second and third sons of his daughter Janet, who had married Sir William Cunyngham, Bart., of Caprington. The 3rd baronet was President of the Royal College of Physicians, Edinburgh. The 7th baronet of Prestonfield succeeded in 1829 as 5th baronet of Lambrughtoun.

In special remainder to baronetcy:—

The male descendants of Lieut.-Col. George Dashwood, brother of 1st baronet, of whom Sir Thomas Peyton, 5th baronet, is senior representative [see Peyton, Bart.].

Alderman George Dashwood, of London, undertook, with others, to farm the whole revenue of the kingdom of Ireland temp. Charles II. He afterwards, with others, farmed the whole revenues of excise and hearth money in England, and was a Commissioner of Revenue till his death in 1682. A patent of baronetcy was granted to him, but as he did not take it out, his widow was given the precedence of a baronet's widow, while a new patent of baronetcy was granted to his son. The 1st baronet of this creation was M.P. for Banbury, the 2nd was M.P. for Oxfordshire, and the 3rd M.P. for Woodstock. Alderman Francis Dashwood, of London, elder brother of Alderman George Dashwood (ante), was father of Sir Francis Dashwood, 1st baronet, of West Wycombe.

Hugo De Bathe accompanied Earl Strongbow in his expedition to Ireland in 1172, and had grants of manors and lands in the counties of Dublin, Meath, Louth, and Drogheda, for which, at the present time, the family pay a quit-rent to the Crown. A baronetcy was conferred in 1666 upon Sir Lucas de Bathe, of Atharne, a senior branch of this family, but this title became extinct in a few years. The 1st baronet, whose name was Bath, resumed in 1793, by sign-manual, the original surname of De Bathe.

Verò nihil verius.

Nothing is truer than truth.

The public safety is my reward.

In 1641 Sir William Dick, M.P., of Braid, N.B., received the honor of knighthood; he was then worth £200,000, and advanced for the service of King Charles I. £52,418 12s. 4d., on the security of noblemen of high rank. Upon the bonds being put in execution for payment, an Act was passed, declaring the consideration in all the bonds to be a public debt, and absolving the sureties. Parliament, however, in 1640, passed an Act for securing public faith; and, out of £300,000 "for the relief of our brethren in Scotland," Sir William was to have had £40,000, but out of which he only received £5,600. In addition to the moneys advanced, Sir William lost greatly during the Commonwealth. The hardship of the case made an impression in high quarters, and on the 9th of May, 1648, an Act was passed granting Sir William the excise on wine for three years. An attempt was also made to get a definite amount paid off the debt out of a sum provided for the arrears of the army; but all that was forthcoming was £1,000, and this not until 1653. Sir William then endeavoured to enforce payment from those whose bonds he held as counter-security, but fresh Acts were passed declaring the debts to be due from the public. Whilst matters were in this state the claimant died, but the case of his family was brought before Charles II., who authorised the payment of an annuity of £132 to Sir William's family, and the pension was continued to his descendants until 1845. Although the style of baronet has been assumed by each successive generation, there is not any record of a baronetcy having been granted either to Sir William Dick (ante) or to any of his successors.

Collateral Branch living.

Issue of the late Frederick Smith Smith-Dodsworth, 3rd son of 3rd Baronet, b. 1822, d.

1885: m. 1848, Jane Rebecca, da. of John Young, Esq., of Westridge, Isle of Wight:—Rosa Alexandrine Elizabeth Maria: m. 1891, Aymar de Seyssel-d'Aix, Marchese di Sommariva. Residence, Castello di Sommariva-Bosco, Provincia d'Alba, Piemonte, Italy.

The paternal ancestor of this family was John Smith, yeoman, of Ecclesfield, W. Riding, co. York, who married the sister and heiress of John Silvester, of Newland Park. Silvester, originally a blacksmith's prentice at Barnsley, became Ch. Engineer at the Tower of London, temp. Charles II., and constructed a chain (then thought an impossibility) to be drawn across the Thames to keep the Dutch fleet from sailing up the river as high as London Bridge. John Smith's grandson was cr. a baronet, and married the sister and heiress of Frederick Dodsworth, of Thornton Watlass, whose surname her children assumed. Thomas Dodsworth, of Dodworth, W. Riding, co. York, Receiver to Henry, 3rd Lord Fitzhugh, K.G., acquired the Thornton Watlass estate in 1415 by marriage with Agnes, da. and heiress of Hugh Thoresby, Ch. Capt. of Richmondshire, and niece of John Thoresby, Cardinal St. Praxis, Archbishop of York, and Chancellor of England, who built the Choir of York Cathedral. Of this family was Sir Edward Dodsworth, Comy.-Gen. to the Army of the Parliament, and Roger Dodsworth, the famous Yorkshire antiquary. Besides the families of Silvester, Dodsworth and Thoresby, the Smiths of Newland represent Howarth of Howarth, co. Lancashire, founded by Osbert Howarth, Master of the Buckhounds to Henry II., and Blayney, Barons Blayney, of Monaghan, which peerage, cr. 1621, became extinct in 1874. Newland was acquired by purchase in 1694. The Thornton estate has descended by blood from an unknown period before the Norman Conquest. This family is lineally descended from Lionel, Duke of Clarence, third son of Edward III. through Mortimer, Percy, Clifford, Conyers, D'Arcy, Stapylton and Dodsworth.

The Echlin family is of ancient Scotch origin, and formerly possessed princely estates in Scotland and also large domains in the counties of Kildare, Carlow, Dublin, Galway, and Mayo. Andrew Non sine prædâ.

Not without prey.

Echlin, of Pittadro, Fifeshire, was Constable and Deputy-Gov. of Edinburgh Castle during the siege of 1572. His son, the Right Rev. Dr. Echlin, Bishop of Down and Connor, who was barbarously murdered in 1635, was grandfather of Sir Henry Echlin, Knight, a Baron of the Court of Exchequer in Ireland, who was created a baronet 1721. The 2nd baronet sat as M.P. for Newry. The 3rd baronet dissipated the family estates. The 4th baronet was one of the gentlemen before whom Hamilton Ronan knelt in the Court of King's Bench to beg the King's pardon. The Kildare estates were dissipated by the 4th, 5th, and 6th baronets.

The House of Egerton, one of the most ancient and distinguished in Cheshire, traces its descent to William le Belward, who was Baron of Malpas under the Norman Earls Palatine of that county. David, great-grandson of William le Belward, took the name of Egerton from the Lordship of Egerton, which he had inherited; and from him, in a direct line, is descended the present baronet. The 7th baronet was created Earl of Wilton. The 8th, 9th, and 10th baronets each assumed the additional surname of Grey. The 10th baronet sat as M.P. for Chester (C) 1830, for Cheshire West 1835-68, and for Cheshire West 1868-81.

Helena.—Marie Caroline.

The Esmondes are descended from a family, which was seated in the 10th century in co. Wexford, and one of whose members was Bishop of Ferns in 1340. In the reign of Elizabeth Sir Lawrence Esmond, abandoning the creed of his ancestors, espoused the cause of H.M., professed himself a Protestant, and was created Lord Esmonde. He married a Roman Catholic lady, one of the O'Flaherties of Connaught, by whom he had a son. The mother, fearing that her child would be reared a Protestant, ran off with the boy, whom she brought up as a strict Catholic. By the statute of Kilkenny, the marriage was voidable in law. One son subsequently gained possession of the Wexford estate, and would probably have gained the peerage, but for the confusion wrought by civil war. He raised a troop of horse for the service of Charles I., and commanded a Regt. in the Duke of Buckingham's expedition to Rochelle, on his return from which he was created a baronet in his father's lifetime. The 9th baronet, the Right Hon. Sir Thomas, sat as M.P. for Wexford (L.) 1841-7, and the 10th baronet sat as M.P. for Waterford (L.) 1852-76.

The family of Frere traces its origin to the latter end of the xiiiith century. The name of Le Frere, as it was generally written, appears in documents and deeds of much earlier date in the counties of Norfolk and Suffolk. Richard Le Frere is reported to have fought under the banner of Robert Malet 1066, who received grants of land near Eye and Finningham, Suffolk, at which place Richard Le Frere subsequently appears to have settled. The family of Frere have, from the earliest times, held land in Norfolk, Suffolk, and Essex. The 1st baronet was Chief Commissioner of Scinde 1850-9, Gov. of Bombay 1862-7, and Gov. of the Cape of Good Hope, and High-Commr. for British S. Africa 1877-80.

The Earl of Hopetoun is descended from Sir James Hope, K.B., 6th son of 1st baronet.

The 1st baronet, Sir Thomas, Lord Advocate of Scotland, had fourteen children, two of whom were upon the Bench when he pleaded as Lord Advocate; from this circumstance, it is imagined, arises the privilege which that officer of the Crown enjoys of pleading with his head covered, it having been considered derogatory for a father to uncover before his sons. In 1643 he was appointed Commissioner to the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland, a dignity which has not since been enjoyed by any commoner. The 11th baronet was M.P. for Midlothian (C) 1845-53.

The family of Syngé was seated at Bridgnorth early in the 16th century. The original name of Millington was changed to Syngé from the circumstance of one of the family being a canon or chantry priest. The Right Rev. Dr. Samuel Hutchinson, Lord Bishop of Killala, was father of the 1st baronet, Sir James Hutchinson, who sat as M.P. for Jamestown, in the Irish Parliament. The 3rd baronet, the Rev. Sir Samuel Syngé, grand-nephew of the 1st and 2nd baronets, succeeded under a special remainder, and assumed the additional surname and arms of Hutchinson; and his 2nd brother, Robert, was created a baronet [see Syngé, Bart.].

The 1st baronet, Gen. Sir William, of an ancient family in Ireland, went in early life to America, and conducted the expedition to Crown Point, and gained the battles of Crown Point and Niagara, for which services he was created a baronet, and received £5,000 from the Government, and also large grants of land in the Province of New York, then part of the British dominions. He settled on the Mohawk river, and brought the Senecas—one of the revolted tribes, and inveterate enemies of the English—to a treaty in 1764. He was sole representative of Indian affairs for the northern parts of America for George II., and Col. of the six united nations, their allies and dependants. Sir John, the 2nd baronet, was also Superintendent-Gen. of Indian Affairs in North America.

The legend respecting the origin of the crest borne by this family is that the chief Johnstone, while at the Scotch Court, hearing of the English king's meditated treachery, in endeavouring to get rid of Bruce in favour of Baliol, who was at that time at the English Court, sent him a spur with a feather tied to it, to indicate "flight with speed." Bruce acted on the hint, and when King of Scotland, conferred upon him this crest. The 1st baronet represented Dumfries in the Scotch Parliament, and voted for the Union. The 4th baronet was a member of the Imperial Parliament, and Sir William, the 5th baronet, a member of seven successive Parliaments, assumed the surname of Pulteney, and died without male issue, one of the richest subjects in the British Empire ; his only child, Henrietta Laura, was created Countess of Bath, and died without issue. The 6th baronet, Sir John Lowther, M.P. for Weymouth 180-11, twice declined a peerage that was offered to him by Spencer Perceval. The 7th baronet was M.P. for Weymouth (C) 1832-5.

Collateral Branch living. (Not in remainder.)

Issue of the late Rev. Edward Leslie, brother of Charles Powell Leslie, Esq., M.P. (ante):—

Two sons, and five daus., of whom Agnes Amelia: m. 1st, 1859, the Rev. Henry Maturin Finny, of Gotham, Derbyshire, who d. 1865; 2ndly, 1876, the Rev. The popular origin of the Leslie motto, "Grip fast," is said to be owing to Leslie, Earl of Rothes, having saved Queen Margaret of Scotland from drowning, by seizing hold of her girdle when she was thrown from her horse while crossing a swollen river. She cried out "Grip fast," and afterwards desired these words to be retained as her preserver's motto. A somewhat different interpretation is, however, preserved in the Leslie family. It is there stated that the founder of the family was Bartholomew, a noble Hungarian, who went to Scotland with Queen Margaret, A.D. 1067. He was much esteemed by King Malcolm Canemore, whose sister he married. In his capacity of Chamberlain to the Queen it was his duty to accompany Her Majesty in her journeys, and as there were no carriages in those days, she rode behind him upon a pillion. On one occasion, while fording a stream, the Queen slipped and nearly fell off, whereon Bartholomew cried out "Grip fast," to which Her Majesty replied, "Gin the buckle bide," there being only one buckle to the belt by which she held on. After this his exclamation was given as the family motto, and two more buckles were added to the colt on the pillion, and also the charge upon Bartholomew's arms, which had heretofore consisted of only one buckle on a bend.

The founders of the English branch of this ancient family came from the Duchy of Lorraine, and were given lands in Northumberland and Durham by William I. In the reign of Henry V., Edward Lorraine married (about 1416) Johanna, co-heiress of William del Strother, Lord of Lyham; and, obtaining with her the estates of Kirk Harle, in Northumberland, removed thither. Here his descendants lived for near 420 years. Edward's successor, Robert Lorraine, was barbarously murdered at Kirk Harle by border robbers, in the reign of Edward IV., as is recorded on a monument raised on the spot to his memory. New arms were granted in 1639, to Thomas Lorraine, a direct descendant of Edward (temp. Henry V.). He was a learned and a pious man, and zealous friend of Charles I., a circumstance that caused the soldiers of Cromwell to burn down his seat at Offerton. His eldest son, Thomas, was the 1st baronet.

Admiral Sir Thomas Louis, K.M.T., K.S.F., was made a baronet for distinguished services with Sir John Duckworth's squadron, off St. Domingo, 1806. He died off the coast of Egypt, on board the ship "Canopus," which circumstance occasioned the curious motto of the family, its probable reference being to the star Canopus. The 2nd baronet, also an Admiral, distinguished himself as a naval commander.
